

string

```
graph TD; string --> whitespace; string --> char;
```

A diagram illustrating the components of a string. A horizontal red line extends from the word "string" on the left. From this line, two red curved lines branch downwards to the left and right, each connecting to a yellow rectangular box. The top box contains the word "whitespace" and the bottom box contains the word "char".

whitespace

char