

string

A diagram illustrating the relationship between the `string` type and its components. A horizontal red line extends from the `string` text to the right. From this line, two red curved lines branch downwards to the left and right, each connecting to a yellow rectangular box. The top box contains the text `whitespace`, and the bottom box contains the text `char`. Both boxes have a black border.

`whitespace`

`char`